ReSource Pro Qingdao Receives Prestigious Red Cross Award

Company Celebrated for Earthquake Recovery Efforts

NEW YORK, NY, June 6, 2011 - ReSource Pro, the leading provider of business processing solutions to the American insurance industry, is proud to announce that its Qingdao, China office has been honored with the International Red Cross 2010 Silver Star Award in a ceremony organized by the group's Qingdao chapter. This prestigious award acknowledges the company's outstanding contributions to various social causes over the past year.

ReSource Pro has become very active in the community service sector since its offices first opened in 2003. A corporate Outreach Committee encourages employees to participate in social wellness programs including fundraisers for local schools, advocacy programs for senior citizens, and Project Hope, China's largest non-governmental public service project. The 2010 Silver Star Award primarily highlights the company's contributions to the Qinghai Yushu earthquake relief effort. In early 2010, employees organized a book sale to raise money for those whose lives were disrupted by the tragic quake that struck Qinghai province in April.

Company founder and Managing Director of China Operations Matthew Bruno said, "This award perfectly illustrates ReSource Pro's ongoing efforts to improve the communities where we live. Our employees are proud to dedicate their time to making their neighbors' lives better, and we will continue to involve ourselves in similar projects as part of our ongoing 'Commitment to Community.'"
